NAME REV. RIDDLE NEW MODERATOR FOR PRESBYTERY

The Rev. Melvin W. Riddle, pastor of Central Presbyterian church of Chambersburg, was elected moderator of Carlisle Presbytery to take office next April for a term of one year. He was elected at the closing session of the two-day fall meeting in the local Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon. He succeeds the Rev. W. A. Webb, pastor of Olivet Presbyterian church of Harrisburg, who presided over the meetings here which were attended by 125 clergy and lay commissioners from 48 churches in Adams, York, Cumberland, Franklin, Fulton, Dauphin, Perry and Lebanon counties.

The Second Presbyterian church of Carlisle was chosen as the place for the brief January meeting of Presbytery with the annual spring meeting listed for Mechanicsburg in April. An invitation to conduct the 1938 fall meeting at Mercersburg was accepted. The invitation was extended by the Rev. J. D. Edmiston Turner, pastor of the Mercersburg church which will celebrate its 200th anniversary next year.

The committee on bills and overtures, headed by Dr. C. Waldo Cherry, Harrisburg, was continued to permit further study and later recommendations on extensive changes in the church calendar. The Presbytery acted upon a partial report presented by the committee on other matters considered by it. The report of the committee on resolutions was drawn by the Rev. D. W. Woods, pastor of the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian church, and contained expressions of appreciation for the hospitality provided by the pastor and people of the local church.

During the afternoon session an address was delivered by the Rev. G. Lake Innes, director of public relations of Lincoln university, who spoke of the service that institution has rendered the Negro race.

The Presbytery adjourned to reconvene for special purposes on October 5 and October 26. On the evening of the first date, the Presbytery will convene at the Hawley Memorial church at Blue Ridge Summit to receive and install a new pastor there and on October 26 Licensee Harold A. Scott will be examined for ordination and installed as pastor of the Calvary Presbyterian church of Harrisburg. The examination and installation will take place in the afternoon.

FOUR ATTEND CATHOLIC MEET

Four Gettysburg women were in Washington, D. C., Tuesday, to attend sessions of the seventeenth annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women which opened last Saturday and will close this evening with a banquet in the grand ballroom of the Mayflower hotel. The women who made the trip were Mrs. Frederick Rowe, treasurer of the Harrisburg diocesan council; Mrs. Nicholas Redding, Miss Rebecca Swisher, girl scout lieutenant, and Miss Mary Eberhart, chairman of the youth committee of the council of the Harrisburg diocese.

In the morning the local women were present at a session in the Mayflower ballroom which was given over to talks and demonstrations of the work of the National Catholic School of Social Service with Miss Anna E. McCaughy presiding. An annual report on the school and its problems was given and a panel discussion conducted on the school's graduates' fields of service.

Several of the local delegation attended a youth luncheon Tuesday noon when the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael J. Ready delivered an address on "A Positive Program for Youth." Others spoke on youth work themes. Later in the afternoon round table discussions of youth work, including girl scouting, was attended by Miss Eberhart and Miss Swisher while others met with a group conducting a round table discussion on the extension of religious education. Before returning home Tuesday evening, the Gettysburgians heard an address on "Education" by the Rt. Rev. Joseph M. Corrigan, rector of the Catholic university of America.

PISTOL MATCHES IN YORK
Officers from the local substation will compete in the quarterly pistol matches for policemen from the York and Gettysburg substations on Thursday at York. The matches will be held at 9:30 a. m. and 2 p. m.

PAST GRANTS TO MEET
The October meeting of the Past Grands' association of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows will be held Tuesday evening, October 5, with Gettys lodge, No. 124, as host.

Two Commissioners, Clerk at Convention

Adams County Commissioners Mervin H. Benner and Edgar C. McDannell and their chief clerk, Winfield G. Horner, left this afternoon for Williamsport where they will attend the annual convention of county commissioners, their clerks and solicitors of the state which opened this morning and will close Friday.

The county officials will return home late Friday. President S. Luther Baltzley is busy with his apple harvest and could not make the trip.

ARMY OFFICERS INSPECT 'FIELD FOR CAMP SITE

Temporary approval of the camp site for federal troops who will participate in the observance of the 75th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg and the final joint reunion of the Blue and Gray here next year was given by Army engineers, Tuesday afternoon, following an all-day tour of inspection of several proposed sites.

Colonel Frank E. Davis, quartermaster corps; Lt. Colonel Henry H. Stickney, corps of engineers and Colonel John J. Reddy, medical corps, came to Gettysburg to confer with officials of the Pennsylvania State commission, Major C. B. Mark, representing the Pennsylvania national guard, and James R. McConaghie, superintendent of the National park, relative to the most suitable site for the large camp that will be required to house the men and equipment next year.

The question of water, sewage, sanitation, medical service and proximity to the highways and the maneuver grounds were thoroughly discussed.

Temporary approval was given to a large site on the battlefield which the Army officers felt was adequate for the federal troops. They will prepare a survey and layout of the camp for men, horses, trucks, tanks and other equipment, after which the Pennsylvania State commission will secure leases on the land required.

The Army officers also inspected the sites selected for the erection of camps for the Civil War veterans, their escorts and the Pennsylvania National Guard.

The State commission, the Third Corps area, representing the War department, and the National Park service are cooperating in these plans and preparations.

Black, Home From Europe, Withholds Klan Statement

Norfolk, Sept. 28 (AP).—Justice Hugo L. Black said upon his return from Europe today that when he has "any statement" to make regarding the Ku Klux Klan issue raised over his appointment to the Supreme Court he will "make it in a way that cannot be misquoted."

The justice, met by a host of newspapermen and photographers who boarded his ship, the City of Norfolk, said that he appreciated "very much this great reception."

"When I have any statement," he added, "you can accept it as definite and final that I will make it in a way that cannot be misquoted and so the nation can hear it."

This was the first indication to come from Black himself that there was a possibility he would make a statement.

Throughout his month of traveling in Europe, during which the Klan dispute reached its height, he had consistently refused to discuss the matter at all.

Silent About Membership
As far as any comment on the actual charges were concerned he continued today to maintain his silence over allegations that he was once given a life membership in the Klan.

The associate justice was asked if his remark about "any statement" he might make meant that he planned a radio speech or statement. He replied that "you will have to draw your own conclusions," but that he "might."

Questioned further about the possibility of a radio statement, Black reiterated his reply, saying:

"If I make a statement I will make it publicly so the people can hear and can understand what I say, because some portion of the press (Continued on Page Two)

Brushtown Adult Club Organized

Miss Mildred L. Adams, county home economics extension representative, conducted a meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Eyster, Brushtown, at which an adult home economics group was organized.

Mrs. Dennis Straley, Brushtown, was elected president, and Mrs. Eyster was chosen secretary of the club.

The members include, besides the officers: Mrs. John Rahn, Mrs. Wilbur Rebert, Mrs. John Rebert, Miss Florence Myers, Mrs. Margaret Smith, Mrs. Paul Eyster and Mrs. George Geiselman.

This afternoon Miss Adams is organizing another adult group in the Round Top community. The meeting is being held at the home of Mrs. John Epley. Thursday afternoon a similar meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Dewey McCauslin, Bendersville.

Daughter Is Born To Elmer Warrens

A daughter, Jane Marie, was born Tuesday afternoon to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer W. Warrens, 128 Seminary street, at the York hospital. It is their first child.

Mrs. Warren was formerly Miss Gladys Palmer, a daughter of C. P. Palmer, near Littlestown, a former clerk of the courts of Adams county.

Mrs. Warren is a former deputy clerk of the courts.

RE-SURFACING OF FIVE STREETS TO START MONDAY

Re-surfacing of selected borough streets is scheduled to begin next Monday morning with all preparatory work to be finished this week. Councilman William E. Biddle, chairman of the borough highway committee, announced today.

Patching is being done on the streets which borough authorities listed for surfacing which will cost about $1,500, the limit placed by the borough fathers on street surfacing work for this season.

The tar-to-be used in the surfacing work is expected to arrive in Gettysburg by train from Philadelphia and will be removed from the cars, heated and applied to the streets by the Citizens' Oil company, of Gettysburg, the successful bidder for the oil contract.

The work scheduled for next week is estimated to require between 7,000 and 8,000 gallons of tar and about 150 tons of stone chips. Chips are being bought from the Gingell quarries, east of town.

Making use of the borough roller equipped with a special attachment, the surface of the first block of East Water street has been torn up or scarified and reggraded. A six-inch layer of heavy stone has been placed and rolled with finer stones being placed over the top to make a tight surface. That street will be ready for tar and chips next week. The rolling will be completed today.

Patching is being done this week on Liberty street, Seminary street, a part of Breckenridge street, and the driveway to the Gettysburg high school grounds. Barring bad weather conditions, the patching will be completed before the end of this week.

Water street will require about 48 tons of stone chips and 2,500 gallons of tar; Seminary street, about the same amount of both materials; Breckenridge street, about 25 tons of chips and 1,200 gallons of tar; Liberty street, 600 gallons of tar and 15 tons of stone, and the high school driveway, 800 gallons of tar and 15 tons of stone.

A number of other streets in the borough had been considered for improvements this year, but limited finances available for the use of the highway department held expenditures to $1,500 on the five streets now being prepared for treatment.

TRIO CHARGED WITH SPEEDING

A truck driver and operators of two pleasure cars were arrested Tuesday afternoon and evening on highways in this section by state motor police officers from the local substation who arraigned the defendants before nearby justices of the peace on speeding charges. Two of the operators paid fines of $10 and the costs of their cases before Justice of the Peace R. M. Straley, New Oxford, while the charge against the third has been filed and a customary 10-day notice will be mailed.

Charles J. Battaglia, Baltimore, was charged with driving his coal truck at 50 miles an hour while the legal limit for the vehicle was 35 miles per hour. Ambrose E. Collier, Chicago, was fined for driving his automobile at the rate of 70 miles an hour. The third driver was Walter J. Hulton, 594 Linden avenue, York, accused of driving 60 miles an hour.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Rev. Busey to Retire; Minister for 47 Years

FORTY-SEVEN years in the ministry will be brought to a close on Sunday by the Rev. B. P. S. Busey, 28 Fourth street, when he retires from his duties on the six-church Ortanna charge of the United Brethren denomination. His retirement will become effective at the convening of the United Brethren conference in Mechanicsburg next week.

The Rev. Mr. Busey has been serving the Mt. Hope, Mt. Carmel, Mt. Calvary, Mt. Victory, Gardens and Bethlehem churches for the last two years.

Following his schooling in Dayton, Virginia, and at Western college, Toledo, Iowa, the Rev. Mr. Busey entered the ministry in 1890.

Since beginning his career he has served pastorates in widely scattered sections of the United States. Before coming to Pennsylvania 23 years ago, the Rev. Mr. Busey spent five years in Illinois; five years in Iowa; one year in Louisiana, and three years in Ohio.

During his career Mr. Busey received 1,971 persons into church membership, and 232 conversions, and officiated at 1,371 funerals; 462 weddings and 1,526 baptisms.

Four new churches and four new parsonages were built by him at various charges he served. The churches erected were: one at Inwood, West Virginia; two on the Joslyn charge, Illinois, and one at Berkeley Springs, West Virginia. The new parsonages were built at Inwood, Orangeville, Illinois; Enola and Duncannon.

The Rev. Mr. Busey married Miss Ida E. Kneader in 1886. They both are natives of Martinsburg, West Virginia. The Buseys, parents of two daughters and two sons, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary May 31, 1936.

After he retires, the Rev. Mr. Busey plans to remain here a while and then later take up his residence in Dillsburg.

SEEK METHOD TO HALT DEER KILLS

Edgar K. Markley, Esq., said this afternoon that investigation at Harrisburg today has convinced him that it is now too late for Adams county hunters to prevent the killing of antlerless deer this fall by legal action.

The executive board of the Adams county Fish and Game association met Tuesday evening and voted unanimously to direct their attorney, Edgar K. Markley, Esq., to determine what legal steps may be taken to block the slaughter of antlerless deer in Adams county in a special three-day season set by the state game commission.

The meeting, which was held in the tailor shop of John W. Brehm, Chambersburg street, was attended by F. Mark Bream, first president of the association; Calvin Gilbert, Hanover street; Mr. Markley; George T. Raffensperger, secretary of the county organization, and Mr. Brehm.

The sportsmen made it clear that whatever course of action is decided upon any legal steps that are necessary will be taken before Friday, October 1, the date upon which the state game commission will begin the issuance of the special permits for the killing of antlerless deer.

The state commission's promise to consider objections of sportsmen in a number of counties who oppose the open season on doe by the end of this week did not satisfy the local hunters, who take the position that their chances of finding legal means to stop the killing of the deer might be greatly reduced after the permits had been sold and sent to the prospective hunters.

Mr. Markley was in Harrisburg today in the interest of the executive board and of the membership of the county association which voted unanimously a few weeks ago to send a resolution to the state game commission asking an absolute closed season on antlerless deer in Adams county.

ABELL LEAVES HOSPITAL

CHINESE FAIL IN ATTEMPT TO SINK JAP SHIP

Shanghai, Sept. 29 (AP).—The municipal police served notice today that just because a war is going on, there is no excuse for traffic violations and they will be rigorously prosecuted. The warning resulted from the recent practice of automobiles and rickshaws keeping on the wrong side of the street to use high buildings as protection against stray shrapnel and machine gun fire from the Pootung war area.

Warn Traffic Violators

Shanghai, Sept. 29 (AP).—A daring suicide squad of 20 Chinese soldiers sacrificed their lives at dawn today in a desperate attempt that just failed to destroy the Japanese flagship Idzumo.

As the mine they had propelled through the murky waters of the Whangpoo river blasted a 150-foot geyser of water and sprayed the Idzumo with shrapnel, the entire waterfront and the battle lines northwest of the city crashed into an inferno of war.

Chinese declared the long-awaited Japanese "big push" on the Shanghai front had begun and the troops manning the defense lines stretching 25 miles northwest of the city had hurled back wave after wave of attacking Japanese infantry with terrific slaughter.

The blast of the Chinese mine a few hundred yards to starboard of the Idzumo rocked the cruiser Augusta, flagship of the United States Asiatic fleet, and hurled American officers and sailors from their bunks.

During the night the Chinese suicide squad, some swimming and some using sampans, gradually floated the mine from the Pootung shore, across the river from Shanghai, through the line of Japanese patrol boats.

Attached to the mine was a cable extending to the British-owned Shanghai new engineering docks on (Continued on Page Two)

County Principals To Meet October 20

The first meeting of the year of the principals and coaches of Adams county high schools will be held Wednesday evening, October 20, at 6 o'clock at Cashtown Inn. A dinner-meeting will be held.

An election of officers for the year will be held and other important business transacted.

ROCK CREEK SPAN SOUGHT 20 YRS. IS COMPLETED

With the completion of the erection of guard rails along the approaches, work on Adams county's newest bridge was finished this afternoon by Walter H. Drawbaugh, Dover, York county, contractor, who began work about the first of August.

The Adams county commissioners made their final inspection of the new concrete and steel structure Tuesday afternoon in company with their consulting engineer, James B. Long, Norristown, and expressed themselves as being greatly pleased with the workmanship and appearance of the bridge that crosses Rock creek near the Maryland line and joins Freedom and Cumberland townships. Long stated that with the completion of work on the guard rails the bridge will meet all specifications and will be ready for formal acceptance by the commissioners at their regular meeting next Tuesday.

The bridge cost the county $11,885. It is of the steel deck girder type of bridge and has two 67-foot spans reaching a central pier. The bridge has a 20-foot driveway.

The side walls of the bridge are of concrete posts and steel railings protected by resloflex which has been placed along the approaches to the bridge. Approaches were graded by the two townships.

The bridge is located on a road that connects with the Emmitsburg and Taneytown roads and may be most easily reached by driving south on the Emmitsburg road, turning to the left at Moritz's, following the hard-surfaced road across the bridge over Marsh creek just below Natural Dam and then turn right onto an intersecting road at the farm buildings of the Bush Horner property. The bridge is located close to the lands of the Horner farm and that of John Waybright.

Completion of the span marks the accomplishment of a project launched nearly 20 years ago by the farmers of the section who came before the county commissioners and secured approval for the erection of the bridge at that site. However, it was not until this spring that county commissioners decided to ask for bids and proceed with the building of the long-sought span.

SITE PROVIDED FOR NEW HOTEL

Transfer of title to 126 acres of land in Cumberland township west of here along the Lincoln highway, upon which a hotel is expected to be erected by the Gettysburg Katalysine Mineral Springs, Inc., was recorded Tuesday afternoon at the office of Register and Recorder Quintin D. Rebert at the court house.

The transfer was made by Clyde D. and Mary C. Berger, Carlisle street. The land was transferred in two tracts, one of 23 acres and the other of 103 acres.

Other transfers listed at the court house included the following: William C. and Hazel B. Chronister, Newberry township, York county, to Emory C. Lutz, Harrisburg, two properties in Hamilton township.

Guy Plank and George T. Raffensperger, executors of the will of the late J. Jere Plank, to Laura Speelman, Gettysburg, a property along the east side of South Washington street.

Parr R. and M. Olive Breighner, Mt. Joy township, to Frank and Margaret Phares, Mt. Pleasant township, 53 acres in Mt. Pleasant township.

Effie B. Rebert, Conewago township, to Charles A. Weber, Hanover, a 155-acre farm in Union township.

Hospital Report

Norton Miller, York street, Gettysburg mail carrier, was admitted as a patient to the Annie M. Warner hospital.

Those discharged were: Mrs. R. E. Miller, Bendersville; Allen Tyson, Gardners R. D.; Mrs. John Mickley and infant son, John William, Ortanna R. D.; Mrs. Allen Deardorff, McKnightstown; Mrs. Donald Smith, Fairfield, and Mrs. Robert Brown, Arentsville.

John Ruback, a student at Mt. St. Mary's college, was X-rayed for an injured right wrist. No bones were broken.

CHINESE FAIL IN ATTEMPT TO SINK JAP SHIP

The Pootung shore. After moving stealthily for several hours, the soldiers reached the steel net which surrounds the Idzumo to protect the flagship from torpedoes and mines.

They had just started to snip the net and slip the mine through when the first rays of dawn began to light up the mist rising on the river.

A Japanese lookout on the Idzumo spotted the suicide squad just as they were ready to push the mine through the net.

Their comrades on the shore saw that they were certain to meet death at the hands of the Japanese biplanes in any case and immediately touched off the mine destroying its human propellers and ripping a wide hole in the steel net.

Foreigners Watch Battle

Throughout the day and into the night the battle for Shanghai raged around the great metropolis of 3,500,000 persons, while the foreign residents jammed the roof-tops to watch the spectacle of terror.

The swollen creeks and bogged roads of the Shanghai delta soon forced the Japanese to abandon their tanks and motorized units and bring up thousands of cavalry to bolster the attack.

A Japanese spokesman declared that marines in the northern fringes of Shanghai had advanced to within half a mile of the north station but admitted that after a day of fighting he could report no gains on the strategic northwestern wing where the Japanese tried again and again to clear the way for an advance to Kaiting. Hay they succeeded they would have forced the Chinese to abandon Lihuo, the stronghold along the upper Yangtze estuary which is preventing the landing of Japanese reinforcements on that flank.

Just as they started the day of battle at dawn, the Japanese warships in the Whangpoo ended the day at nightfall with a devastating bombardment of the Pootung industrial area in an effort to blast out the strongly entrenched Chinese.

30 Planes in Attack

Great flashes of crimson light and thunderous roars spotted at least six positions between Shanghai and Woosung, 12 miles down the Whangpoo.

The shells of one Japanese warship near the Japanese consulate sizzled parallel to Shanghai's famous bund like gigantic skyrocketed multiplied a hundred fold.

The hour-long bombardment was said by the Japanese to be the answer to the Chinese shelling of their airfield in the Yangtze area where two large fires threw up an awesome glow against the night sky.

Shanghai was rocked by furious explosions as a fleet of 30 war planes bombed the North Station and Chapel sectors in virtually uninterrupted relays.

Artillery joined in the shelling and the railway administration station was struck four times while 80 bombs were dropped in one area of 1,000 square yards between the North Station and the Commercial Press building.

The British battalion of Welch fusiliers was ordered to abandon its barricades on the international settlement border and take shelter after one shell burst within 20 feet of their lines.

Chinese estimated that 140,000 Japanese soldiers and 11,000 marines and sailors were taking part in the drive along the entire 25-mile Shanghai front.

In North China the main body of Japanese consolidated their advance along the railroad to Hankow from Peiping and occupied the town of Shihlo, 130 miles south of Peiping. Shihlo was captured Tuesday by a Japanese armored train.

The advance south from Tientsin reached a point 85 miles from the headquarters of the north China expeditionary force and was approaching the yellow river boundaries of Shantung province. Japanese war planes began operating against Shantung units and bombed the airfield at Tientsin.

Cholera Cases Increase

The series of attacks on the south China coast was renewed, and Canton, the main southern port, was raided although the Japanese planes did not reach the city proper.

Foreigners arriving at Hongkong, at the mouth of the Canton river, told of seeing a Japanese destroyer fire on two Chinese fishing junks. Several more survivors of the reported submarine attack on another fleet of junks reached Hongkong aboard the British liner Kaying. The Japanese have denied the submarine attacks.

An additional 114 cases of cholera were reported today to swell the total thus far in the international settlement and French concession to 1,965. Two of the new victims were foreigners. Fourteen foreigners have died of the plague out of 28 stricken.

The death rate among the Chinese is only 20 per cent, the difference being due, American doctors said, to the immunity the Chinese have built up through centuries of endurance of plagues and diseases of all kinds.

Arabic is spoken by more than 20,000,000 persons.

WOMAN, IN COMA 5 YEARS, DIES

Chicago, Sept. 29 (AP) The enigma of pretty Patricia Maguire's strange five and a half-year sleep was sealed today in death.

The 32-year-old suburban Oak Park woman for whom time stopped at the age of 26 died at a hospital Tuesday night without bridging the abyss of unconsciousness created by her baffling ailment, lethargic encephalitis.

A common affliction—pneumonia—was the immediate cause of death. It developed Sunday when Miss Maguire was taken to the hospital for the removal of an abdominal tumor. Two blood transfusions failed to check the disease or shake her from the coma which had proved unfathomable to medical science.

With her when she died were six members of her family, including her mother, Mrs. Peter Miley, who had cared for her day and night since she was stricken, February 15, 1932.

Many eminent physicians studied the case but none of their ministrations proved successful.

In October, 1933, she showed signs of a potential reawakening. Despite a liquid diet she continued to gain weight until six weeks ago when an abdominal tumor was discovered.

Miss Maguire's sleep was among the longest recorded in medical annals.

She was a typical outdoor girl who excelled in sports and enjoyed a normal life before her strange affliction began to affect her in January, 1932.

RULES ON FUEL TAX

Washington, Sept. 29 (AP)—The internal revenue bureau said today consumers may deduct payments under the Pennsylvania liquid fuels tax in computing federal income tax returns.

WAYNESBORO IS NEWEST MEMBER OF CONFERENCE

Waynesboro high school was admitted as a member of the Southern Pennsylvania interscholastic athletic association at the fall meeting of the circuit at the Argonne hotel, Carlisle, Tuesday evening. President Charles Derick, of Shippensburg, presided. About 30 persons were in attendance.

The admittance of Waynesboro will be made actual at the start of the 1938-39 basketball season. Earlier admittance was impossible due to schedules having already been drawn up.

The circuit is now composed of the following eight clubs: Hershey, Carlisle, Shippensburg, Chambersburg, Waynesboro, Mechanicsburg, Hanover and Gettysburg. All schools were represented at the meeting.

League officials forced Hanover and Chambersburg into clashing on the gridiron this year and in the future. The schools had severed football relationship when Chambersburg refused to play night games at Hanover.

A resolution was passed to prevent the requiring of teams playing night games against their will. However, night games were sanctioned when played by mutual agreement of the competing schools.

Prof. Guile W. Lefever, Coaches George Forney, Russell Gilbert and Fred Haehlen were among those attending the meeting.

WEATHER AIDS ALL FARM WORK

Philadelphia, Sept. 29 (AP)—The weather last week was generally very favorable for all kinds of fall farm work, the review of the weather bureau on crop conditions in Pennsylvania stated today.

"Corn cutting is about completed in all sections," the review stated, "and silos are filled in many parts of the state. That part of the corn crop caught by the frosts of the preceding week was well ripened and no serious damage was done."

"The absence of rain is beginning to show its effects in the condition of pastures and meadows, which have suffered during the week in nearly all sections and a general soaking rain will soon be needed."

Tuberculosis is the chief cause of death among Alaskan natives.

AMISH MAY TAKE SCHOOL PLEA TO SUPREME COURT

Lancaster, Pa., Sept. 29 (AP)—The "plain people" of East Lampeter township will go to meet tonight to consider asking the nation's highest tribunal if their children must attend a school they've always opposed.

Sombre-garbed farmer folk from up and down the township will mount the hard seats of their wagons to drive to a community hall for another mass protest against the new consolidated school which, the law requires, their boys and girls must attend for the first time Monday morning.

They will weigh the pros and cons of an appeal to the United States Supreme Court against what they consider a violation of their religious principles.

The bearded Amish and plain-living Mennonites assert the new building, to replace nine one-room schools, will lead their children away from the faith and ways that have enabled them to keep their colony intact since their forefathers arrived from Germany.

A PWA loan to help finance the building, they said, could not be reconciled with their convictions against contracting debts.

A preliminary injunction they obtained stopped work on the $112,000 consolidated building early in the summer, but construction went forward under an order granted by a higher court. A hearing on the latter order is to be heard some time in October.

One one-room rural building, in the center of the "Dutch" section of the township, will remain open even after the new school opens. Thirty-seven children, all Amish or Mennonites, attend this school.

The township school board said approximately 16 other children of the two sects scattered in nine other small buildings must ride with other boys and girls to the new school.

The school board says it will enforce the truancy law if the little "plain people" fail to heed the call of the school bell.

LETTER SPURS HUNT FOR ROSS

Chicago, Sept. 29 (AP)—Receipts of a special delivery letter which investigators hinted contained ransom demands spurred the inquiry today into the kidnapping of Charles S. Ross, 72-year-old retired manufacturer.

The letter, written in pencil and postmarked Washington, D. C., was delivered to Ross' wife Tuesday night. The kidnappers laylaid her husband Saturday night.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert, head of the state's attorney's police, said he would neither deny or confirm the report that ransom demands were received.

A belief that demands were made was bolstered by the advent of federal agents in the case. The latter may take action immediately upon receipt of a ransom note. They declined comment.

Captain Gilbert indicated the case had been turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The letter shared attention with a clue to the identity of a man believed to have "put the finger" on the victim for the kidnappers.

Cecil Vandiver, a bellboy at the Fargo hotel in Sycamore, Illinois, saw a stranger talk to Ross in the hotel lobby about an hour before the abduction. Tuesday Vandiver picked from police files a photograph which he said resembled that of the man.

A wide search meanwhile was underway in western suburbs, particularly woods and fields 15 miles west of the city where the three kidnappers encountered Ross as he was returning from Sycamore with his former secretary, Miss Lorence Freithage.

Captain Gilbert ordered the search on the theory that the elderly man died from shock. Ross had heart disease.

Heads Diocese Group

The Rev. Fr. John P. O'Donnell, rector of Conewago chapel, was appointed head of the Adams county deanery of the Harrisburg diocese of the National Council of Catholic Women during the sessions of the national council convention at Washington, D. C., this week. The deanery is being formed as a part of a new plan for the organization of Catholics in the Harrisburg diocese.

A meeting of the new organization is to be held here next month.

STOCK REPORT

New York, Sept. 29 (AP)—Leading stocks toppled one to more than four points today, although selling volume was comparatively small considering the size and breadth of the decline. The list was actively lower at the start, with blocks of 1,000 to 5,000 shares changing hands and losses running to around three points. The pace slowed appreciably soon afterward and extreme recessions were cut down in many cases. Offerings became more insistent later and near noon prices were not far from their low marks.

Summit Minister To Preach Here

As a continuation of their participation in the exercises celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of the organization of the Presbyterian Board of foreign Missions, the Gettysburg Presbyterian church members will engage in the worldwide communion service Sunday morning. This evening they will make preparation for that communion by engaging in a service of divine worship at 7:30 o'clock.

The Rev. Frederick B. Crane has announced that the Rev. Joseph C. Dickson, minister-elect of the Hawley Memorial Presbyterian church, of Blue Ridge Summit, will be the guest preacher. The Rev. Mr. Dickson has come to his new pastorate from a service of several years in the Ashland Presbyterian church. He was graduated from Princeton seminary in the class of 1930, a classmate of the pastor of the local church.

Following the worship service the Session of the Church will meet for the purpose of receiving new members.

REGISTRATION CONTINUES

Registration of voters continued at the court house today with the total for the current period approaching 150. On Tuesday 34 electors were enrolled by J. G. Swope, special clerk. The office is open daily from 8:30 a. m. until 5 p. m. It will close Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

TO ATTEND INSTALLATION

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college plans to attend the inaugural ceremonies on the campus of Heidelberg college, Tiffin, Ohio, at the installation of Dr. Clarence E. Josephson on Saturday, October 23, as seventh president of the college.

Agree on Italy's Part in Sea Patrol

Paris, Sept. 29 (AP)—French, British and Italian naval experts agreed today on a plan to bring Italy into full cooperation with the Nyon patrol to stamp piracy from the Mediterranean.

The plan will be signed by the technical delegates this evening and rushed immediately to the three governments for final approval. The conference has been working since Monday on a plan to grant Italian demands for complete parity with Great Britain and France as "the most Mediterranean of nations."

Pope's Statement Hits 4 Countries

Vatican City, Sept. 29 (AP)—Pope Pius XI today issued a dramatic encyclical which was construed as an attack on Communist Russia and Nazi Germany, and the leftist-inclined governments of Spain and Mexico.

The document, "An Encyclical Letter on the Rosary of the Blessed Virgin Mary," urged the Roman Catholic faithful to pray against the evils of Communism and the tendency of some state leaders who war against Communism to "exhume pagan errors and morals."

SEEK FRANKLIN BRIDGE

Harrisburg, Sept. 29 (AP)—The water and power resources board today received applications for channel revisions, and structures over Pennsylvania waters. They included: Franklin — Waynesboro Country Club, Inc., construct a bridge across Little Antietam creek, approximately three miles east of Waynesboro, in Washington township.

Black, Home From Europe, Withholds Klan Statement

might decide not to publish what I said."

As Black began to back away, still smiling, a reporter asked what he called "a specific question" as to whether Black was a member of "the invisible empire."

"Who are you with?" Black asked. When the newspaperman had identified himself, Black responded that he had "made the only statement" today that he was going to make.

"I repeat," he added, "that's the total statement. Here, later today, or anywhere else."

Appreciates 'Courtesy'

This was taken to mean that he would decline to say anything further in the controversy today and not as meaning that there was no possibility of future comment from him.

Terminating the interview, Black smiled and told newspapermen: "I appreciate your courtesy in meeting me. I am very happy about it."

The Alabamian refused also to answer questions about when he expected to begin service on the court. But he told newsmen that they would be able to reach him in Washington, probably at his office in the Supreme Court building.

Newsmen boarded the City of Norfolk in Hampton Roads. Black first told them he had not breakfasted and would talk to them later.

The justice greeted friends among the newspapermen cordially. He showed resentment, however, when a representative of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette offered him a copy of the series of stories concerning his reported connection with the Klan.

"Wonder if you would care for the series of stories published by the Post-Gazette," Black was asked. "You take that back to Mr. Block (Paul Block, publisher of the Pittsburgh paper)." Black retorted sharply, closing his stateroom door.

Silent When Klan Mentioned

The new justice, whose nomination by President Roosevelt aroused a storm of controversy in the Senate, repeated several times that he had no intention of making any statement, except under the conditions he had specified, and that therefore it would be "wholly useless" for reporters to seek him out.

Whenever the questioning approached the Klan, Black shut his thin lips tightly.

The intense public interest in Black's course was demonstrated by the size of the newspaper delegation which gathered at the Norfolk dock at dawn to meet the incoming liner at quarantine off Old Point Comfort.

The usual customs boat and a special coast guard boat were loaded down with reporters and photographers, together with half a dozen personal friends who went out to the boat to meet the associate justice.

Boarding the steamer, City of Norfolk, in the choppy waters of Hampton Roads, newsmen rushed forward to find the door of Black's stateroom wide open.

It was then only a few minutes after 7 o'clock (EST). But the Justice and Mrs. Black were up and ready for visitors.

The throng around the stateroom door immediately became so thick that members of the Black party, which by this time included the friends who had boarded the ship to meet him, could not move in or out.

Mrs. Black and a friend went to the dining room for breakfast while the men chatted over a breakfast served in Black's stateroom.

Speculate on Black Case

Washington, Sept. 29 (AP)—Associate Justice Black's return to the United States stirred speculation today on what developments would arise from the charges he is a klanisman.

Possible denouements discussed among capital residents were:

1. A demand from President Roosevelt for Black's resignation. This has been suggested by several Senators. Black will take his seat on the court October 4, and the President is not due back from his western trip until three or four days later.
2. Impeachment proceedings. Chairman O'Connor of the House rules committee has undertaken, at the request of a New York newspaper, to canvass House sentiment.
3. An investigation of the charges by a presidential commission. This has been suggested by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.).
4. A finding by the Supreme Court that Black is ineligible. Challenges have been filed by Albert Levitt, former federal judge, and Patrick Henry Kelly, Boston attorney. Both contend Black is barred by the constitutional prohibition against appointment of a member of a Congress which increases the emoluments of an office to that office. Congress provided recently for voluntary retirement of Supreme Court justices at full pay at 70 years of age.
5. Black taking his seat on the bench without any subsequent action.

'WEATHERMAN' AIDS GIANTS IN PENNANT DRIVE

(By The Associated Press)

Just about the only things left standing today between the Giants and Yankees and their five-cent World series were seven games in the National league and as many in the American.

For the "Bronx Bombers," "in" since way back when, those seven games really are only exercise with the chance of winning one of today's tests from the Athletics and thus hanging up their 100th scalp of the year.

The seven games the Giants have left are a bit more of a hurdle, but not much. And for that the Terrymen, campaigning without their flu-stricken boss, can thank the weather.

It rained in New York Tuesday—rained a double-header with the Bees right out of the season. Thus, although the Cubs cut their deficit to four games by blanking the Reds, 2-0, the 1936 champions were left needing only two more victories to clinch the flag.

The Giants today were in Philadelphia's hand-box Baker bowl, with a pitching staff rested by the day off and a wrecking crew that had its sights trained on the Phillies' short fences.

The Yanks were aiming at their 100th victory and stood a good chance of bettering last year's mark of 102 games won for the year.

That Washington bargain bill was the occasion for a good many events. Charley Ruffing, pitching a two-hit, 9-0 shutout in the opener, got back on form to win his 19th game after two failures. Bill Dickey returned to action after a brief rest to hit his 28th homer, and Joe DiMaggio hit his 45th as well as a triple and double, then added a single in the nightcap.

For Giant fans, on the other hand, there was satisfaction in seeing Joe Krakauskas spike the Ruppert rifles, 2-1, in the second game. Krakauskas is a left-hander. His triumph was the 18th by a southpaw in the 48 games the Yanks have lost. The Giants boast two very fine southpaws in Carl Hubbell and Cliff Melton.

In Tuesday's rain-curtailed program, the outstanding one-man job was delivered by Clay Bryant of the Cubs. He pitched two-hit ball, drove in the winning run with a triple and scored the other himself.

In the only other National league game the Pirates took third place from the Cards by whipping them, 6-2.

In the American league, the Tigers beat the last-place Browns, 6-1, and Julius Solters' tenth-inning homer, plus Bob Feller's relief pitching, gave the Indians a 7-6 win over the White Sox. The Sox were leading, 10-4, when the second game was called after 3 1-2 innings because of darkness.

George Hill, Tigers—Tamed Browns with five hits as mates won, 6-1.

Paul Waner, Pirates—One of his three singles, with bases loaded, drove in deciding run in 6-2 victory over Cardinals.

900-FOOT LINE BRINGS IN TROUT

Duluth, Minn. (AP)—Charles E. Pearson, of Chicago, had to make a big "play" for his fish, but he got it.

Angling in Lake Superior, he had to play out 900 feet of copper line before landing a 27-pound trout.

"Fish 'em deep" is his advice.

Sports Roundup

—By—

EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Sept. 29 (AP)—If the Giants don't cut him in for at least a half share of the world series dough, "Jupiter Pluvius" ought to holler his head off. . . . That double washout Tuesday just about sewed up the bunting for the Terrymen.

But it hurt the front office's heart. . . . The giants needed only 8,903 paid admissions to hit the million mark in home attendance. . . . There are no more scheduled games at the Polo Grounds.

Add all wet reports: The one at Ithaca that Carl Snaveley is feuding with some of his academic friends at Cornell (over football players' credits) and may go out. . . . Snaveley has a three-year contract, running through 1938. . . . Snaveley called the Cornell team which beat Penn State "the greatest I ever coached." . . . All we have to say is if it has much on that 1935 North Carolina outfit, the other teams on Cornell's schedule had better light out for the storm cellars right now.

Pitt's 1928 foes are smiling. . . . Doc Sutherland loses 15 seniors off this year's squad. . . . Penn State is maneuvering to get on the Army and Ohio State schedules. . . . In Newark they are betting the Bears cop the little world series in no more than five games.

Zowie! . . . Did General Manager Warren C. Giles of "Zinzinnati" start something when he blandly remarked he'd like to get Dick Bartell of the Giants to manage the Reds? . . . Horace Stoneham hit the ceiling and the blast he let out was heard plumb around the National league. . . . "rampering" he shouted, and added he aimed to tell President Ford Frick about it. . . . Bartell remained strictly neutral. . . . P. S.: Bartell will not manage the Reds next season. . . . Who will? . . . We're asking you.

With Jimmy Wilson pretty sure to be back with the Phillies and Stan Harris due to sign with Washington any day now, the only major league canning possibilities are Pie Traynor, Steve O'Neill and Jim Bottomley. . . . Personal nomination for the most valuable player in the National league—Mel Ott of the Giants.

Nelson Downs Picard In Belmont Golf Play

Belmont, Mass., Sept. 29 (AP)—Enriched by $5,000, split on a 3-2 basis after the rain-marred Belmont open match play final, Byron Nelson and Henry Picard, Pennsylvania professional golfing neighbors, prepared to seek additional wealth in South America.

They and their Ryder cup team-mate, Denny Shute of Newton, the repeating P. G. A. champion, will fly to the Argentine Friday to play exhibitions and compete in that nation's open championship.

Nelson, after being held even by Picard's 71-par morning round, put on a terrific spurt during the afternoon's downpour Tuesday and gained the larger share of the first cash prize in the $12,000 tournament with a 5 and 4 victory.

Immigrants entering Argentina must show they either have a job there or property worth $1,500.

Venice is planning to institute a system of one-way traffic on those of the city's historic canals which are reserved for motor boats.

Fans Debate Yankee 'Power' And Giant 'Pitching' as Time for World Series Nears

New York, Sept. 28 (AP)—There being no further serious argument about the winner of the National league pennant, it becomes fashionable once again to start comparing the talents of those two colossal New York institutions, the "Jints" and the Yankees.

Which will win the second "sub-way series" in as many years, starting a week from today? The dope, all things considered, must favor the Yankees, run-away champions of the American league, to repeat last year's six-game victory.

Boasting the greatest collection of sluggers in baseball, the Yanks have systematically bludgeoned the life out of the opposition in their league. Their admirers say they will, once again, strew the Giants all over the Bronx.

Those who swear by the National leaguers' brand of baseball—tight pitching, fast fielding, hard fighting—say it's going to be a different story this time. They think Carl Hubbell and Cliff Melton, two of the greatest southpaws ever to pitch for one club, will slow the Ruppert rough-housers down to a toddle.

That is going to be the drama of the series, when Melton and Hubbell and then Hal Schumacher (probably in that order) start trying to slip strikes past DiMaggio, Dickey and Gehrig. There will be the danger of an explosion on every pitch. It's up to the Giants' pitchers to see that it doesn't happen.

Well, Hubbell, up to today, had won 21 games and lost only 8; Melton, a first-year man with a fancied grudge against the Yankees because they turned him adrift after a trial, had won 19 and dropped 9. Maybe the National league doesn't

BUCKSKIN CAMPOREE

The Buckskin Camporee of the York-Adams area council, Boy Scouts of America, will be held on Saturday and Sunday at the Sea Scout base along the Susquehanna river. Gettysburg troopers are expected to participate. To be eligible for entry in the camporee a scout must be at least 14 years of age, he must have a Standard Campers' emblem, must be at least a second class scout and must have a pair of moccasins for himself and a satisfactory pack or pack carrier.

STUDEBAKER'S C. I. T. BUDGET PLAN OFFERS LOW TIME PAYMENTS

C. W. EPLEY, GARAGE

URGE NEW TAXES, IF NEEDED, TO BALANCE BUDGET

Washington, Sept. 29 (AP)—The administration's two chief fiscal officers will urge President Roosevelt to balance the budget in the next fiscal year, informed officials said Tuesday, even if it requires new and heavier taxes.

These persons' said Secretary Morgenthau and Chairman Mariner S. Eccles of the Federal Reserve board are convinced a balance between income and spending is essential to bolster business confidence and permit a paring down of the $36,864,000,000 public debt.

Although neither has commented on the recent stock market decline, authorities pictured both as believing this drop probably resulted in part from business uncertainty over the government's future fiscal course.

Morgenthau, seeking to eliminate the red-ink entries written on federal account books since 1931, already has started a series of conferences about balancing the budget in 1938-39.

At his press conference late Monday, he said "we are exploring every avenue through which savings might be effected" during the current fiscal year.

The deficit stands now at $247,000,000, compared with Mr. Roosevelt's estimate of $418,000,000 for the entire fiscal year. Treasury authorities said they were hopeful the deficit could be held under the President's estimate, but expressed doubt that it could be eliminated entirely.

Morgenthau, it was said, will give the Chief Executive up-to-the-minute financial estimates for both this year and next immediately after Mr. Roosevelt's return from the west.

If the Treasury secretary's survey of this year's fiscal picture shows that a budget balance can not be attained without higher taxes, officials said, he will recommend that heavier levies be provided.

The Treasury is making a thorough survey of the entire tax structure. Authorities said that after a basic program is laid down, it will be relatively simple to fix tax rates which would close the spread between receipts and spending.

Although these persons asserted heavier taxes naturally might be greeted without congressional enthusiasm during a campaign year, they said expanding business activities should make increased taxes less burdensome.

Before urging additional levies, however, officials said Morgenthau will make every effort to pull down expenditures to the level of receipts. Whether this can be accomplished, they asserted, will depend in large measure on congressional outlays for crop control and other activities.

Truckers' Permit

Deadline Tonight

Harrisburg, Sept. 29 (AP)—Truckers have until midnight tonight to apply for Public Utility commission permits—if they don't have them now—or face a shut-down of business.

The commission will decide in executive session next week what it will do about tardy truckers. "Ex-tenuating circumstances" may be considered, it was indicated.

Up to today, nearly 10,000 common carriers, contract carriers and truck brokers have asked for approval. Commission jurisdiction over the truckers who haul only on contract or who have a brokerage business to hire out other people's trucks is the new angle in the utility law. They were not required to get commission approval before June 1.

MAJESTIC THEATRE

Twenty-eight wives and daughters of U. S. Navy officers made scenes of Universal's "Wings Over Honolulu," while it was filmed on location at the North Island Naval air base near San Diego. The ladies appeared in scenes shot aboard the giant aircraft carrier Ranger in San Diego bay. They supported Wendy Barrie, Ray Milland, Polly Rowles and Samuel Hinds.

"Wings Over Honolulu," will be seen at the Majestic on Thursday. It gives rare insight into the little known aspects of Navy family life. It shows the human side of the service, as well as the thrills of Navy aviation.

Freddie Bartholomew's Parents Start New Move for His Custody

Los Angeles, Sept. 29 (AP)—Life is just trouble, trouble, trouble and worry, worry, worry for young Freddie Bartholomew.

Right in the middle of his court fight for more money from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer come mama and papa Bartholomew, wanting to take him away from his Aunt Mylicent. Attorneys for Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Llewellyn Bartholomew, Freddie's parents, filed notice in Superior Court Monday they would petition to have his adoption by his aunt last April 3 set aside on grounds of fraud. Hearing was set for Friday.

Attorney Avery Blount explained the parents believed a signed statement in which the aunt promised to return their son at their request was binding despite the adoption, to which they consented.

An Evening Thought

To know how to wait is the great secret of success.—De Maistre.

Out of the Past

Happenings of days gone by as chronicled in The Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times the files reveal.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Brame—Shanebrook. — Emory E. Brame and Miss Ella V. Shanebrook, both of near Gettysburg, were married in Carlisle Saturday by Rev. Ira F. Brame.

Entertained Class.—Miss Margaret Howard entertained her Sunday school class and a number of friends at her home near town. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Howard, Mrs. Martin Howard, Miss Margaret Howard, Misses Annie Weaver, Mary Wible, Lillian Rowe, Tillie Grove, Irene Stroup, Jessie Trimmer, Miriam Trimmer, Nellie Eckenrode, Virgie Musser, Marie Trostle, Verna Kitzmiller, Mary Rowe, Verna Speese, Mary Johns, Bertha Weikert, Alice Miller, Aida Ocker, Helen Rupp, Ada Johns, Ivy Tawney, Daisy Wentz, Estella Raffensperger, Messrs. E. R. Cessna, Walter Johns, G. E. Bookrutz, M. E. Miller, S. L. Hench, R. E. Mook, E. F. Rice, John Shealer, John Blocher, David Howard, G. E. Hartman.

Many Went to Philadelphia.—Two hundred and twenty-six Gettysburg people went to Philadelphia on this morning's excursion which had for its special attraction the zoological gardens and the football game between Gettysburg college and the University of Pennsylvania. Among the people from town who took advantage of the low rates were:

Earl McClellan, W. M. Conover, Luther Deatrice, Rev. S. F. Snyder, Samuel Cox, Arthur Taughnbaugh, John Rupp, D. F. Steffy, Rev. A. R. Wentz, Mrs. L. L. Sieber, John Good, J. Allen Holtzworth, Mrs. W. A. Taughnbaugh, Miss Minerva Taughnbaugh, Mrs. E. H. True, Mrs. Frances Pritchey, Mrs. Charles H. Huber, Miss Ruth Annan, Donald Coover, Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Peckman, Harold Spangler, Paul Spangler, John Blocher, Ralph Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Brehm, Miss Gail Greenawalt, Frank Ramer, Miss Elizabeth Cox, Miss Louise McKnight, Foster Beard, William Duncan, Cavin Hartman Mr. and Mrs. George Grove, L. M. Panus, Miss Panus, Luther Musselman, Miss Katherine Duncan Mrs. Clyde Mumper and daughter, Miss Rachel Skelly, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Althoff, Miss Emma Steinhour, Mrs. Ernest Weaver, Mrs. William H. Burd, Miss Olive Hoke, Joshua Bain, John Kimpke, Miss Gladys Van Cleave, Mrs. G. H. Buehler and two sons, Edgar Miller.

Democratic Meeting.—The Wilson and Marshall club held an enthusiastic and largely attended mass meeting in the Court House on Friday evening. The college band furnished music for the event. Charles S. Duncan called the meeting to order and nominated Wm. Arch McClean for presiding officer. Mr. McClean had eight vice presidents and there were two secretaries. George C. Fissel and John McDonnell. The first address was by A. R. Brodbeck, candidate for congress from this district. Elmer C. Greenawalt, Democratic candidate for congressman-at-large made the second address and the final speech, was by Congressman Hartwick of Georgia.

Personal.—Carl Oyler, young son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Price Oyler, was taken to a Philadelphia hospital for treatment for appendicitis. Mrs. R. E. Zinn accompanied him.

Mrs. Wood has returned to Washington after spending several months with General and Mrs. Lomax here. John Fissel, of Atlantic City, is spending some time with relatives in this place.

Norman S. Heindel and David Porney went to Philadelphia by automobile on Friday night.

Miss Ruth Annan is visiting for several weeks with friends in Philadelphia.

Master Elmer Schultz, of Baltimore, is spending two weeks with his uncle, Harry Roddy and family, on Steinwehr avenue.

John Kimpke, Chambersburg street, is spending several days in New York on business.

Miss Annie Danner is spending some time with Rev. and Mrs. Charles E. Reinwald in Emmitsburg.

Keller E. Rocky has gone to Carlisle after a visit of several days with friends in town. He will demonstrate the chestnut tree blight at the Carlisle fair.

Mrs. William A. Hennig, York street, is visiting friends in Altoona.

Harry Davis, formerly manager of the Cleveland Americans, is spending several days with Ira Plank at his home near town.

Mrs. Brown has returned to her home in Baltimore after a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Lippy, on Chambersburg street.

Guyon Hartzell, who has been making his home with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hartzell, left Wednesday for California, where he will make his home with his mother.

L. M. Slentz and wife left this morning for Reading, Allentown, Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

Mrs. Robert B. Diehl, of Cash-town, is visiting her father, Jacob F. Bream, East Middle street.

Miss Dora Frommeyer is attending a house party in Baltimore.

Miss Mary Swope and Miss Martha Dickson are spending several days in Baltimore.

Prof. Charles F. Sanders has purchased an Overland automobile.

Misses Edna Bowers, Viola Tawney and Lucy Tawney are spending several days with Miss Alverta Masenheimer, of Hanover.

"Eddie" Plank won his twenty-fifth game on Sunday. He has lost six of the thirty-one games in which he has played.

Ruel Horner, of Zortman, Montana, is spending some time at the home of his mother on Steinwehr avenue.

Miss Martha Neely returned to Bethlehem on Sunday to resume her studies at Moravian seminary. S. S. Neely and family are spending several days in Allentown.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. McIlhenny have returned to their home on Lincoln avenue after a trip to Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

CHUBBY REFUSES

"PLEASE tell me how you feel, Chubby?" urged Honey Bear. "Did you have a fall? Did you have any fright? Did you have any trouble? A ny narrow escapes from danger? Tell men, tell me."

"I've just been walking," said Chubby. "I haven't had any falls. I haven't been frightened. I haven't had any trouble. And I haven't had any narrow escapes."

He was about to say that he had suffered terribly from homesickness, but decided not to.

"I can't understand you, Chubby," Honey Bear said.

"No," answered Chubby quietly. "But we won't talk about it now," said Honey Bear. "We'll all go back to Puddle Muddle and you'll be yourself in no time at all. Rip is looking for you now somewhere in these woods and Willy Nilly is in his automobile Two-Ways at the edge of the woods."

"I can't go back to Puddle Muddle," said Chubby.

"What?" exclaimed Honey Bear. "You are all so kind. You're all, as good as you can be. You do so much for others. But I cannot go back. It's not fair to any of you."

"Wait until I get Willy Nilly. Wait until I get Rip," said poor, puzzled, confused Honey Bear. "Will you talk to Rip? Will you tell Willy Nilly that you won't to home with us?"

"I can't," said Chubby. "You must all go back and forget about me. But I'll always remember my happy life in Puddle Muddle."

"Rip! Rip!" growled Honey Bear at the top of her bear voice. "Come here!" Rip came dashing through the woods, not minding branches that were in his way—not minding anything. "I've found Chubby, but he won't come home!"

EVER HEAR OF 'BROSTER'?

HERE'S WHAT IT MEANS

St. Paul (AP)—Twist your tongue around and get ready for a new word—"broster."

Professor F. Earl Ward, of the Macalester college English department, says a former student suggests it as a word to represent "brother and sister." See how it works? Half of each word.

The Germans and Scandinavians have a word for it, but the English language is devoid of a single word to express the meaning.

An "s" on the end gives you "brosters," one brother and two or more sisters. Two or more brothers and one sister has to be "sproster." And from that easily come "sprosters," two or more brothers and two or more sisters.

"I'm going home to see the folks and sprosters." It tells everything, except their names.

THAT SHIP OF YOURS

A FRIEND gave me a very inspiring motto recently. Here it is: "Don't wait for your ship to come in. Go out and meet it!"

Thousands of good (though perhaps lazy) people wait daily for their ships to come in. They can't see the logic of people all about them unloading ships that are heavily loaded with treasures, but which became theirs only through strife and struggle, lame backs, and ceaseless toil. Ships come to people who go out to find them—and then bring them into port!

Not until the young man is put entirely upon his own does he find himself and begin his substantial development. Maturity then sets in. We love the things into which we have put a good part of ourselves.

There are too many "pleeced-out" men and women in this world—"pleeced out" by others. Just so long as a man can lean upon some one else, he will do so. When he can no longer do it, he begins to look different—and feel different. He is different. He then looks like a man! The ship that he kept telling people about coming in some day—and promising things to others when it did—started coming in when he decided to go after it.

"Don't wait for your ship to come in. Go out and meet it!" Anything may come to the man of will and work. Usually the honors, acclaim, and appreciation are far beyond his understanding, for all he really had in mind was to get his ship safely into port with a good cargo that would be of use.

When a distinguished visitor comes to a foreign land, or when a native citizen has been traveling abroad and done something notable meanwhile, it is customary to send out a welcoming party to meet him, before his ship lands. This is to pay signal honor to such a visitor or citizen.

That ship of yours, that may be only a dream, perhaps, but which you believe awaits you out in the Somewhere, in itself will pay honor and glory to you—if you go out to meet it, and do not wait until it gets near to shore, when Fate, as she often does, turns what should be your ship over to some one else.

THE DARK SHIPS

By HULBERT FOOTNER

Chapter 39
Bullets Fly

It was now about 8:30 and since Maryland does not use daylight saving time, perfectly dark.

The blond young man was not visible in the street outside. There were no taxicabs cruising in this part of town, and Neill regretted that he had not told his driver to wait. However, he saw a taxicab standing at the curb across the street about a hundred yards towards town. Probably the taxi used by the blond young man. Neill crossed over. The back of the cab was empty.

"Will you take me into town?" he asked the driver.

"Sorry, mister. I've got a date."

"Where is he?"

"Can't tell you that, he paid me to wait."

"I'll pay double fare."

"Can't do it, after taking his money. He's got my name and number."

"He won't say anything," Neill laughed. "He can't afford to."

"So you say. But I ain't gonna risk my job."

Neill returned across the street. There was a trolley line, but no car was in sight. He walked slowly back and forth as if waiting for a car, but in reality trying to spy out where his trailer was hidden.

It was a quiet neighborhood. Across the road where the taxi waited, there was a high bank not yet built upon. On Neill's side the little houses and occasional stores were lighted up, but there was no body moving on the sidewalk. At the corner a newly-opened street dipped down steeply and was swallowed in the dark.

Neill found his man partly hidden behind a syringa bush at the side of a house on the corner. "Good evening," he said pleasantly.

"Evening," mumbled the man huskily. He was trying to disguise his voice. Neill had a sense that he had heard it before. Perhaps the blond hair, the ashy cheeks, the spectacles, also constituted a disguise. Impossible to tell in the darkness.

"Nice night," said Neill.

No answer.

"How often do these blame trolley cars run?"

"Don't know. I'm a stranger in the neighborhood."

The young man's voice was shaky. He was evidently laboring under a powerful excitement. However, Neill apprehended no special danger to himself. The taxicab was almost directly across the street, and Heinrich's with its beer drinkers not a hundred yards away. Neill aimed to quiet him by adopting a friendly air.

"You Know Too Much?"

"Have a cigarette?" he asked.

"Don't use them."

"Gosh! I didn't think that there was a fellow of your age in the country didn't smoke 'em."

No answer.

"Maybe you prefer a pipe?"

No answer.

"I thought from the way you were standing here that you belonged in the neighborhood."

The young man's voice began to break. "Is it any business of yours?"

Neill looked at him steadily. "Well, yes, since you ask me. You've been following me around ever since I arrived in town this afternoon. Also this morning. Naturally I'm curious. What's the idea?"

The young man made an effort to get a grip on himself. "You're mistaken, fellow. I never saw you before until this minute."

"Come off," said Neill good-naturedly. "That's your taxi waiting across the street."

"Wrong again, fellow."

"What's the use of stalling?" said Neill. "I've had my eye on you for five hours past. In the Belvedere I heard you sending the plain-clothes men off on a wild-goose chase. Good comedy..."

The young man's voice broke completely. "Damn you!..." he cried.

"Damn you... you know too much!" He whipped out a gun and fired at Neill point-blank.

Neill saw the movement coming and dropped in time. Bent almost double, he ran down the steep side street, into the enveloping darkness. The man fired again, and a third time, but his aim was wild. He came charging after Neill. As in a dream, Neill heard a shout from the taxi driver and the sounds of other people roused by the shots. Then silence. They were afraid to follow.

The street was only half a block long. It ran out on a kind of waste land where the earth from excavations had been dumped, making irregular hummocks all around. Rubbish was heaped everywhere and it was impossible to run. Neill swerved sharply to the left and dropped behind a hummock hoping that the man would run by.

But when his pursuer came to the broken ground, he stopped, gun in hand, looking around and listening. He was only half a dozen paces away and Neill could see him perfectly well against the starry sky. Neill softly drew his own gun, but he was resolved not to shoot the man if it could be avoided. He could hear the murmur of the crowd gathering at the top of the street.

Neill tried to edge a little further away under cover of the dark. The man heard him and fired again. Neill ran for some yards in a zig-zag course and dropped again. The man had him pretty well placed now, and came creeping towards him close to the ground. Neill figured that he would have either two or four shots left in his magazine.

"Here I am," Neill said, to draw his fire again.

But he only kept creeping closer.

From far away Neill heard the sound of a clanging gong, rapidly drawing near. Somebody had phoned for the police. A new anxiety attacked him, for he couldn't afford to face an investigation, even though he was the innocent victim.

The police car stopped at the head of the street. The crowd began to move down slowly. Neill arose and ran again. The man followed without attempting to shoot. Neill could hear his hoarse breathing. Neill collided with an invisible wire fence, and was flung back on the ground. The man was almost on him. There was no help for it now. Rolling over, Neill took aim at his legs and fired. The man stumbled forward and, falling almost within Neill's reach, lay there groaning. The gun had flown out of his hand.

Barbed Wire Helps

Neill ran on as fast as he could down the hill, parallel with the fence. The police were now spreading over the hummocky ground. They had flashlights. They were moving cautiously. A wild anxiety lent Neill speed and sureness. If he were taken, everything would be wrecked. Just as he was beginning to see light ahead.

The police heard him running and began to spread down hill to cut him off. Neill put his hands on a fence post and, vaulting clear of the wire, ran straight away.

His pursuers were less nimble in getting over the fence. He heard them cursing as their uniforms caught on the barbs, and he gained on them. He then had the notion of doubling and creeping back towards the fence, lower down. He wormed his way down hill close to the fence until he was stopped by a stream at the bottom. Meanwhile the police were searching the open ground above.

He climbed the fence again and, making his way upstream for a short distance, came to a group of dark buildings, a mill of some sort. There was a dam over the stream with a footway. He crossed it, and struck into a road that climbed the hill on the other side. Soon he was among the streets of another poor quarter of the town. Absolutely quiet over here. Across the little valley he could see the flashlights moving back and forth like fireflies.

He kept straight on until he had risen out of the slums into a better quarter. Upon coming to a wide suburban road, he turned into it, heading towards town. Presently a taxicab came bowling along, having delivered a fare in the suburbs. Neill hailed it and, sinking back in the seat, thanked God for his luck.

He changed taxis once on the way into town to baffle possible pursuers. He was still in some anxiety because he could not tell what the wounded man might say to the police. Not for the truth, anyhow. To be on the safe side, he kept away from his usual haunts and made no attempt to communicate with Mattingly who was still waiting for him at the midtown garage.

In a drugstore on North avenue, Neill took possession of a booth, and started phoning. From the yellow pages of the phone book it was easy to establish that the only banana importer in Baltimore who ran his own ships was one A. Lanassa. Neill called him up at his home, and an Italian-American voice answered. It was Mr. Lanassa himself.

After giving him an agreeable spiel, Neill asked him who his lawyer was.

The voice turned wary. "What! I got all kinds of lawyers."

"Well, who are they?"

"No information given over the phone. Come and see me in the morning." He hung up.

This was a setback, but not a fatal one. Neill had other leads to follow. He did more telephoning and a satisfied grin began to spread over his face. The last number he called was that given him by Johnny Tingstrom, the taxi-driver who had once shown himself his friend. He was obliged to wait beside the booth until Johnny came in from a trip and called him.

(Copyright, 1937, Hulbert Footner)

Neill gets a shock when he returns to the Abraham Lincoln, tomorrow.

Margiotti Rules On Turnpike Bonds

Harrisburg, Sept. 29 (AP)—Attorney Charles J. Margiotti ruled Tuesday that the $50,000,000 to $65,000,000 bond issue planned by the Pennsylvania Turnpike commission for its all-weather highway will not be a Commonwealth debt.

The decision clarifies the legality of the bonds, his office said.

The revenue bonds "do not constitute debts of the Commonwealth within the meaning of the Constitution, and therefore may be issued legally," he ruled.

The Constitution restricts the state debt to one million dollars.

The ruling was asked by Walter A. Jones, Pittsburgh, chairman of the turnpike commission. Bonds are to be sold shortly after the first of the year to finance the Harrisburg-Pittsburgh super highway along the route of the abandoned South Penn railroad. The bonds are to be repaid out of tolls.

The attacking force but enough of the infantry, artillery, cavalry and tanks were taken out to simulate a formidable enemy.

Two dependents of deceased veterans of the War of 1812 were still receiving pensions in 1935.

Most of the division today was the attacking force but enough of the infantry, artillery, cavalry and tanks were taken out to simulate a formidable enemy.

Soon after dawn the battle started. It was an extended maneuver—three day's activities in two—because rain forced postponement of Tuesday's problem.

BREAKS NECK ON 'FLYING RINGS' IN BARN 'GYM'

A Mechanicsburg youth was killed Tuesday afternoon in the barn near his home on flying rings he constructed himself.

Alvin Harry Yohn, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Yohn, 317 South York street, Mechanicsburg, was found hanging from the rings, his neck broken by one and his leg caught in another.

Cumberland County Coroner Haegele, of Mechanicsburg, said that young Yohn's death was accidental.

Yohn was found hanging from the rings by a friend, Vincent Adams, also of Mechanicsburg, with whom he was accustomed to take exercise on the home-made device. The rings were made entirely of rope.

Neck Caught in Noose
While swinging on the rings on which he had learned to do a number of stunts, Yohn apparently fell in such a manner that his neck was broken as it became entangled in the looped end of one of the ropes.

After finding his friend's body, Adams told Yohn's mother, who summoned a physician. The doctor pronounced the youth dead.

A graduate of Mechanicsburg High school in the class of 1935, young Yohn also attended Central Pennsylvania Business College, Harrisburg. Formerly employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad, Yohn had recently been picking apples.

Work in the orchard where he was employed was called off Tuesday because of the threatening skies. Yohn was a member of Trindle Spring Lutheran church, where he was also teacher of a Sunday school class.

Besides his parents, Yohn is survived by a brother, Lester Yohn. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at his home.

Microscope a New Tool Used Fighting Crime

Washington, Sept. 29 (AP)—Quick Watson, the acid! Pass along a microscope, too, and you'll have your modern Sherlock Holmes just about baffle-proof.

Arthur Muchow, president of the International Association for Identification, said today knowledge of scientific methods has changed the whole picture of criminology.

Muchow is here for the association's 34th annual convention. He brought up the once-troubling custom which automobile thieves followed—filing off motor block numbers.

"Elementary, my dear sir," said Muchow—or words to that effect. The modern criminologist applies a little acid, then heat, and the original number stands out like mid-August freckles on a small boy.

Metallurgy also plays a prominent role in crime detection.

A home-made bomb exploded with fatal results. It looked like a perfect crime until identification experts went to work.

First, they traced metal fragments from the bomb to a certain smelter. Pains-taking detective work led them to the home of a man who owned an automobile axle, identical in molecular structure to the bomb fragments. Microscopy had given him away.

In another case, three suspected safe-crackers were convicted when an identification expert showed that the cutting edge of their pliers exactly matched scars which a microscope disclosed on the demolished safe.

CRIPPLED DOCTOR, 82, GROWS BULBS FOR LIVING

Greensburg, Ind. (AP)—Handicapped in his profession by the loss of an arm following an accident, Dr. A. D. Galbraith, 82, turned to the growing of flowers and bulbs. Assisted by his wife, who is 79, they have built up a profitable business. They have been married 61 years.

DePauw University is in Greencastle, Ind., forty miles west of Indianapolis.

RIISING COSTS WORRY DAILIES

Harrisburg, Oct. 29—How to maintain up-to-date newspaper service in the face of rising operating costs will be one of the chief topics to be discussed by newspaper editors and publishers in a series of six regional meetings which will be held under the sponsorship of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' association, beginning Saturday, October 2.

Both daily and weekly newspaper publishers are to consider at these meetings the necessity of increasing subscription and advertising rates. Reports based on a state-wide survey will show that many newspapers already have taken such steps, due to increased taxes, higher labor costs and three increases in the cost of newsprint. Beginning January 1, 1938, the cost of newsprint will be 20 per cent higher than it was two years ago.

The effect of the 44-hour laws on the newspaper industry, and all sorts of technical problems will feature all of the sessions.

The first of the series of these newspaper meetings will usher in the Sixth Annual Newspaper Prestige week, which will be observed from October 2 to October 9. Many newspapers over the state will keep open house at least one day during this week to entertain readers and advertisers and to show them the part the community newspaper plays in their life. Friday, October 8, has been designated as Newspaper Boy Day.

Both Newspaper Prestige week and the regional meetings of the publishers are in charge of committees headed by Floyd Chalfant, publisher of the Waynesboro Record Herald, president of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' association. The weekly publishers will meet in Philadelphia, Hershey and Pittsburgh, October 2, 9 and 16; the daily groups in Philadelphia, Hershey and Orangeville, near Sharon, October 4, 11 and 18.

HUGHES FAVORS SIX NEW CIRCUIT COURT JUDGES

Washington, Sept. 29 (AP)—Statistics compiled by Attorney General Cummings were used as ammunition today by Chief Justice Hughes in a report generally regarded as an attack on President Roosevelt's court reorganization proposal.

Hughes disclosed the annual conference of senior Circuit Court judges recommended appointment of four more Circuit judges and 12 more district judges to relieve congestion in certain areas.

He said, however, that a tabulation submitted by the attorney general "indicates important progress has been made" in expediting the work of federal district courts.

"This survey," he added, "indicates clearly that the question of delays in the trial of cases after joinder of issue is one that should be considered with respect to particular district courts."

Reports of the Circuit judges, Hughes said, "show that in general the Circuit Courts of Appeals are well up with their work."

Four of the additional district judges, Hughes said, were recommended by the Circuit judges at their meeting a year ago—before the President made his proposal for additional jurists—but that Congress had done nothing about them.

Cummings, who appeared before the conference when it was in session last week, was one of the principal advocates of the President's now-quietest court remodeling plan. Some say he was the principal author.

In his message to Congress last February, Mr. Roosevelt recommended the additional judges be appointed to the federal courts for each judge who did not retire after becoming 70 and ½ years old and serving 10 years on the bench.

The increase would have been limited to 50, including a maximum of six new justices for the Supreme Court. The judicial conference limits its examination to the Circuit and District courts.

One of the principal topics of discussion in political Washington is whether Mr. Roosevelt will make any further moves toward enactment of the legislation to inject "new blood" into the judiciary.

Many observers expect the attitude toward administration legislation by the Supreme Court, which begins a new term next Monday, to be an important factor in determining the future of the court revision bill. Last term, the court sustained New Deal laws in every major class.

"YOU WANT The Singing Lady? —Push the button nearest me"

THAT WILL BRING HER... RIGHT AWAY

Sparton tuning, with the revolutionary Sparton Selectronne, requiring only the push of a button for instantaneous, accurate, hair-line response is simplicity itself. The blurred vision of age, the groping blind, toddling children, any one in fact, can bring in, quicker than a flash, any one of six favorite stations... or all six successively, in just a few station sampling seconds.

When far shores call, abroad or at home, you can turn a simple control, and hear short wave transmissions or police, amateur or ship-to-shore conversations, by manual operation just as you did before able engineers perfected the sensational Sparton Selectronne.

Sparton proudly offers you the choice of 24 quality models, large and small, all featuring clean cut reception on a noiseless background with scores of improved features. Be sure to see and hear Sparton before you decide on any radio set.

BAR TO WATCH
U. S. JUDICIARY

Kansas City, Sept. 29 (AP)—An American Bar association committee urged "increasing vigilance" today to throw a permanent blockade against any new attempt to "re-make" the Supreme Court.

Declaring the "likelihood" that a court reorganization proposal would be renewed, the special committee recommended the association set up a seven-man commission to keep constant watch over the nation's judicial system.

The report was brought to the convention floor today by Sylvester C. Smith, Jr., of Phillipsburg, New Jersey, committee chairman. It credited the association-sponsored bar referendum—which showed four and one-half to one majority against President Roosevelt's Supreme Court plan—as a substantial factor "in bringing about the historic adverse report by a majority of the Senate committee" on the original administration Supreme Court bill.

While speakers continued a critical barrage against the court plan and other Roosevelt measures Tuesday, Oklahoma's Attorney General Mac Q. Williamson spoke up for the New Deal—and brought prompt rebuttal from Frederick H. Stinchfield, the Bar association president. Addressing the National association of Attorneys General, Williamson said "there is always a danger in those entrusted with high office, whether in the Bar association or the nation to become smug, complacent and self-satisfied and to regard as a sinister force anyone who disagrees with them."

The Oklahoma official said the Bar association leaders have formed a "mutual admiration society of backslappers," and that the "face cards" of the convention had lost interest in the "playing cards" who make up the rank and file.

Stinchfield replied in an interview: "This whole matter originated in the attempt of the administration to put over the Supreme Court measure and all other references to the administration are purely incidental."

"We consider the Supreme Court issue in no sense partisan or political," he said.

The seven-man commission suggested in the court proposal report would work with special congressional committees to study the federal court system. If court changes were proposed in Congress again another bar referendum would be recommended to determine the course of the commission.

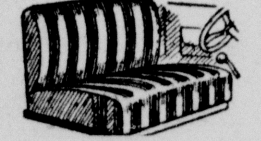

HORSE THIEF 'DETECTIVES'
STILL GET TOGETHER

Garnaville, Ia. (AP)—The Garnaville Horse Thief Detective Association, organized in 1850, still functions.

Thirty members hold annual meetings on Whit Monday (second Monday after Ascension, in May) and they pay dues, elect a captain and eleven riders.

According to original plans the captain and his riders were notified when a horse was stolen. The "detectives" started search immediately. They were allowed $5 a day expenses and stood a good chance of getting the $50 reward if the thief was caught.

If the horse was recovered, the owner paid 10 per cent of its value into the association treasury; if not recovered the association paid 75 per cent of its actual value to the owner.

BRAVE MARE

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.—The old gray mare galloped to the rescue when a bull charged her owner, Steve O'Connor. The mare, 12 years old, was grazing when the bull attacked O'Connor in a pasture. She quickly kicked the bull into retreat. O'Connor escaped with minor injuries.

NEEDLE ACHE

Anderson, Ind.—When Mrs. William Gift, 77, rubbed her aching leg, a needle emerged. Then she remembered swallowing the needle more than 50 years ago.

COSTLY PRACTICE

Buffalo, N. Y.—The baseball bill for Buffalo's International league Bisons will be a little higher this year. A jury ordered the Bisons to pay Fred Phillips $1,000 because he was struck on the head by a practice fly that cleared the fence.

WHAT A THRILL

Pagosa Springs, Colo.—The couple who parked their auto at Wolf Creek pass had a peach of a story to tell today—If they weren't still too scared. They drove up as engineers set off 12½ tons of dynamite to tear out one side of the pass for a new road. A boulder the size of a house pounded down the slope and came to rest 12 feet from the car. When the dust cleared away, the couple had driven off—still unidentified.

TRAVELING TURTLE
 Nebraska City, Neb.—Joe McGinnis, Nebraska City boy, picked up a baby turtle in a creek near here. There are lots of turtles in the creek, but this one had "
